Due to our geographical position and good relations with many countries, we could play an important role as a bridge connecting current and future EU members.
Description of the project
Action, Measure in the framework of „Europe for Citizens” Programme	Networks of Towns
Timetable of the project	app. 1.1.2019-31.12.2020
Short description of the project, including its aims	Migration is one of the oldest human trends, but the global population has never been more mobile. When a person migrates, they take their culture with them and tries to integrate into new local environment. The presence of new cultural factors can have positive social, economic and political implications on sending and receiving nations. But it can just as easily lead to tension which manifests itself as racism and xenophobia. The arrival of new people and culture often seem like a threat. Someone who speaks a different language, eats different for or practices different habit scan quickly be viewed as intimidating in a place with a dominant homogenous society. According to the United Nations, three quarters of the world's major conflicts have a cultural dimension. It seems complicated due to such differences and varieties, but it is the most important and relevant thing to define individuality of the nation, tribe or minority. Religion, tradition, food, art and language are just some elements that can be pieced together to constitute a particular culture.

The project is aimed to foster and respect cultural differences, not only among Europeans themselves, but also among the people which have migrated to other country for different reasons – economic, social, violation and armed conflicts, etc. The project covers migrations of all kind, not just recent migration waves, but also those in the past, which have created some specific 'minorities' among native inhabitants.

Project's aims:

- Fostering intercultural dialogue;
- Exchange of good practices;
- Raising awareness about cultural differences in local environment through different activities (volunteering activities, theatre, exhibitions, cultural events connected with food, art and language, etc.);
- Discussions on importance of cultural diversity, and how our differences can become our strengths;
- Workshops on integration, inclusion, impact of migrations and cultural differences;
- Get to know each other personally in order to become neighbours, break stereotypes and start working together → physical meetings between local communities and migrant communities;
- Activities to make citizens more open, more inclusive and socially sensitive
- Creating friendship among participants

The emphasis of the project meetings will be on combining more theoretical part (learning new tools, good practices, based on cultural integration, etc., which can be implemented into each partner's local environment and measured by each partner) and organising event, meeting, festival, etc. where project participants can hang out with locals, jointly them enjoy cultural varieties of the environment.

Both, theoretical part and event, are important part of dissemination of results and to follow the goals of EU for Citizens Programme.
